

Winning a Major Victory for Financial Firm

In a case involving novel issues of insurance coverage for directors, officers, and other additional insureds under various forms of management liability policies, Orrie advocated for top executives of a major financial firm. Arguing an appeal and moving to reargue, Orrie secured more than $40 million in defense costs for the client.