

Insurance Journal: Insuring Cyber Podcast: EP. 90: From Main Street to Capitol Hill, Insurance Pros Discuss Critical Infrastructure Resilience July 31, 2024

On June 27, the U.S. House Homeland Security Committee's Subcommittee on Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Protection held a hearing titled, "Sector Down: Ensuring Critical Infrastructure Resilience." Members of the critical infrastructure sector and insurers were in attendance as witnesses to give testimony. In this episode of The Insuring Cyber Podcast, three experts engage in a post-hearing discussion about critical infrastructure resilience and cyber risk, where the insurance industry can improve gaps in coverage, and what this all means for small and mid-sized businesses as well as larger firms. Hear from Matthew McCabe, managing director for Guy Carpenter's Cyber Center of Excellence, Jack Kudale, Founder and CEO of InsurTech Cowbell, and Jillian Raines, partner at Cohen Ziffer Frenchman & McKenna.

Click here to listen to the episode.

Related People

Jillian Raines

COHEN ZIFFER
FRENCHMAN
 MCKENNA