Robin Cohen has been selected for inclusion in the 2018 listing of the “Leading Lawyers in America.”

The Lawdragon 500 covers all practice areas and geographic regions, and it includes lawyers from private practices of all sizes, businesses, governments, law schools and public interest organizations. Selections are based in part on submissions from law firms and other organizations, as well as votes through an online form, though the staff’s own editorial research is the most important factor in the selection process.
