

Robin Cohen Profiled in Law360's Report on How Women Law Firm Leaders Broke the Glass Ceiling

Robin Cohen was featured in an article published by Law360 titled "Female Law Firm Leaders: How We Broke The Glass Ceiling." The article reviews a recent report by McKinsey & Co., that found women's perceptions of their ability to advance within their law firms are often fairly bleak. In the article, Ms. Cohen, discusses the importance of having women in leadership positions to allow other women to see that such opportunities are possible. "I think it helps women in a lot of respects," she said. "If women see other women are on these committees, it will attract more and better talent. Part of it is that they can see that women can succeed at this firm."

The full article can be found here.

Related People

Robin Cohen