

Robin Cohen provided commentary to Law360's article "Proposed Virus Coverage Backstop Leaves Pricing In The Air"

Robin Cohen was quoted in Law360's article "Proposed Virus Coverage Backstop Leaves Pricing In The Air." The article reported that "A proposed federal reinsurance program for pandemic risks that is under consideration by lawmakers on Capitol Hill may galvanize more insurance carriers to offer coverage for businesses' losses due to future viral outbreaks, but pricing such policies could prove difficult because of the dearth of historical data on large-scale pandemic events." Robin said that she "expects that when many business interruption policies come up for renewal, insurers will "be looking to button them up in a way to preclude or very much limit any coverage for pandemics." Read the article here.

Related People

Robin Cohen