My Approach

I enjoy intellectual challenges and in-depth research. My natural curiosity and ability to delve into the roots of problems in a timely manner serves our clients well.

Overview

Kelly Henry brings a strong desire to help people and a great deal of analytical acumen to the firm's insurance defense practice. Drawing on her excellent life-long work ethic, Kelly strategically applies her skills to help clients recover the money they're owed.

Kelly's background in corporate and commercial litigation gives her valuable insight into the needs and goals of organizations seeking fair insurance claims. In addition, her experience as a teacher's aide and her work in an intellectual property clinic during law school taught her to communicate with clients effectively by calibrating messages to specific audiences and breaking down legal concepts to enhance clarity.

Growing up, Kelly was highly influenced by her aunt, an attorney who became her role model. The early exposure to the profession piqued her interest and inspired her to help people by putting her problem-solving skills to good use in a legal context.
